DIVERSITY & INCLUSION
IS OUR FOUNDATION FOR INNOVATION AND DRIVES OUR BUSINESS FORWARD.

Comcast NBCUniversal is proud to support the National Congress of Black Women and your 36th Annual Awards Ceremony. Together we are catalysts for change.

Thank you for taking this journey into virtual programming with us today and for your support throughout the year. We pray that this event will be a joyous one for you.

With various tragedies involving the police, we agree that police reform is needed. There must be mutual respect between our community and the police. In our College for Kids and other youth programs, we’re promoting that respect by having young people meet police officers in a situation other than a confrontational one so they can engage in conversations about what is expected of each other.

We’re increasing our efforts to bring together professionals in various fields so that our young people learn to make wise choices about their lives. We introduce them to many professionals—especially what they do and what they studied to do what they’re doing at work. Our goal is to broaden the life choices young people make as they become familiar with various professions. They have an opportunity to find out what a journalist, a politician, an electrician, a computer specialist, various kinds of doctors, lawyers, etc. do.

Despite the COVID-19 pandemic, we have been busy performing community services where we could safely do so. Our members across the country have served. In various cities, our members adopted Nursing Homes and provided soap, lotion, shampoo and conditioners, as well as meals for nursing home workers. Some chapter members are still assisting seniors and people with disabilities with food delivery, traveling to banks, pharmacies, grocery stores and other urgent needs places.

We provide scholarships. Our Culture of People with Disabilities Committee provides assistance to direct services as well as information on where to go for various needs. We’re working with the YMCA, Kappa Alpha Psi and others on the “Urgently Rescuing Our Children” project by providing information and services for children impacted by COVID-19 and other conditions brought on by “Wounds of Circumstance.” We’re working in a collaborative effort with other women’s groups to pass the Equal Rights Amendment and on other issues involving women. We’re just starting a Career Readiness program.

We work in a collaborative effort with the World Conference of Mayors, the National Policy Alliance and the National African American Reparations Commission to improve all areas of our lives through advocacy of policy changes that affect women and their families. We continue to assist women and their families with advice on where to find various services, and we work to provide clothing for young people who find themselves without basic necessities. We don’t limit our service to one or two things. We try to assist women and their families with whatever their needs are. We are in the beginning stages of organizing a project called Workforce Readiness. You will hear more about it soon.

We have worldwide outreach via a weekly radio program that I host and we have access to over 200 Black newspapers with weekly articles. I serve as a regular guest on issues of concern to Black women and our families. During the past 2 years we worked with USDA on a project to improve food choices for families. Our chapters have worked on Voter Registration and GOTV activities. If you are not a member, we invite you to join.

See www.nationalcongressbw.org for further details on all that we do or call 202/678-6788.

Sincerely,

EMPOWERMENT BRINGS OUT OUR BEST

Supporting and encouraging talented female leaders is a vital part of our commitment to powering the District of Columbia and Maryland. It is their energy, innovation, and skill that help us do our best.

We are proud to support the National Congress of Black Women’s Annual Awards Program.
Solomon Kinloch, Jr., was born to the late Solomon, Sr. and Janie Kinloch on July 28, 1973. He is the youngest son and the fifth of six children. He has been a minister since the age of 14, beginning under the tutelage of Rev. Robert Smith, Jr. at the New Bethel Baptist Church in Detroit, Michigan.

In 1998, Pastor Kinloch accepted the call to Pastor at Triumph Church, in Detroit, Michigan. Under Kinloch’s visionary leadership, Triumph Church has since blossomed into a multi-site phenomenon, utilizing eight campuses and hosting fourteen weekly services for more than 35,000 members (and counting).

There are no signs of that trend slowing down as the church welcomes nearly 400 new members each month. Triumph Church has been listed as one of the Fastest Growing Churches in the U.S. and the 25th largest church by Outreach Magazine.

He is married to Robin, and they have one son, Kadin.

We congratulate and thank Pastor Kinloch for being “a good brother”.

Dick Gregory Good Brother Award

Dick Gregory was a great friend of the National Congress of Black Women, Inc. He attended NCBW brunches annually. Everyone from across the country expected him to be there. He never disappointed the hundreds who attended the event. He would entertain everyone until late into the evening. He shared his wisdom. He took endless photos with everyone.

Mr. Gregory and NCBW President, Dr. E. Faye Williams, were inseparable social activist friends. One could depend upon them to speak out and picket for the great causes of the day - voting rights, immigration reform, fair wages, world hunger, the demand to change the insulting name of the Redskins(NFL Football team) criminal justice and women's rights and more.

Dick Gregory was truly “a good brother”.

Congratulations on 36 years!
Ms. Wiley has spent her career fighting to dismantle structural racism and win transformational change with low income communities of color. From the ACLU, NAACP Legal Defense Fund, to founding the Center for Social Inclusion, a national policy strategy organization working with community based and national organizations for equity, Maya has worked on the front lines of the intersection between racial and economic justice at the community level. Maya is a leader in city government and in spurring democratic change. As Counsel to the Mayor she delivered for New York City on civil and immigrants’ rights, women and minority owned business contracts, universal broadband access and more. After leaving City Hall, she made police discipline more accountable as Chair of the Civilian Complaint Review Board, and worked to improve public education as a Co-Chair of the School Diversity Task Force. At the New School, where she currently serves as a University Professor, she founded the Digital Equity Laboratory on universal and inclusive broadband.

Doctor of Medicine
Patrice Harris

In the early 90s, Dr. Harris launched her private practice in Adult, Child, Adolescent, and Forensic Psychiatry. In addition to her practice, Harris has leveraged her expertise for public service and advocacy. She is also an adjunct professor at Emory University in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences. Dr. Patrice Harris, a child and adolescent psychiatrist from Atlanta, was the 174th president of the American Medical Association and the first African American woman to hold this position. A private practicing physician, public health administrator and patient advocate, Dr. Harris has been an active leader in organized medicine for her entire career. She has served on the AMA’s Board of Trustees since 2011, including a term as chair, and is chair of the AMA Opioid Task Force. She is an adjunct assistant professor in the Emory Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, and an adjunct clinical assistant professor in psychiatry and behavioral sciences at Morehouse School of Medicine.

Cynt Marshall is a dynamic force. When hired as CEO of the Mavs in March 2018, Cynt brought transparency and her values-based leadership style. She has been driven throughout her career to establish and develop a network of friends, partners, business associates and policy makers during her 36 years at AT&T. After retiring and starting her own consulting firm, she received a call from Marc Cuban of the Dallas Mavericks and now “Cynt” is steering this organization with her vision of Diversity (an invitation to the party) and Inclusion (being asked to dance). Prior to the Mavericks, “Cynt” served as SVP-Human Resources and Chief Diversity Officer at AT&T, President-AT&T North Carolina, and the first African-American chair of the North Carolina State Chamber.

Cynt is the recipient of several awards, including one of Adweek’s 30 Most Powerful Women in Sports and one of the 2019 Women of Power Legacy Award honorees by Black Enterprise.

Cynt is a graduate of the University of California-Berkeley.

Letitia “Tish” James is the 67th Attorney General for the State of New York. With decades of work, she is an experienced attorney and public servant with a long record of accomplishments. She is the first woman of color to hold statewide office in New York and the first woman to be elected Attorney General. In 2013, Ms. James was elected Public Advocate for the City of New York and became the first woman of color to hold citywide office. As Public Advocate, Ms. James served as a watchdog over New York City government agencies and as an advocate for the City’s most vulnerable communities. Ms. James successfully took on the gun industry by pushing New York City’s largest pension fund to divest from gun and ammunition retailers. She fought in court on behalf of children and families on issues including children in foster care, children with disabilities, and tenant protection. New Yorkers overwhelmingly elected her to a second term as Public Advocate in 2017. Prior to serving as Public Advocate, Tish James represented the 35th Council District in Brooklyn in the New York City Council for ten years. Before her election to the City Council, she served as head of the Brooklyn Regional Office of the New York State Attorney General’s Office. She assisted the Civil Rights Bureau in its investigation of the NYPD’s stop-and-frisk policy.

Tish James began her career as a public defender at the Legal Aid Society. A proud Brooklynite, she is a graduate of Lehman College and Howard University School of Law.
Driving a Brighter Future

For more than 65 years, Ford Motor Company Fund has worked to improve people's lives, investing $1.5 billion to support innovative programs in Community Life, Education, Safe Driving and the Ford Volunteer Corps.

For opening minds and building a better tomorrow, Ford salutes the National Congress of Black Women.
Founder, President and Chief Executive Officer of ADDI, Her Excellency Arikana Chihombori Quao MD is a medical doctor (having practiced medicine for over twenty-five years), founder and owner of medical clinics, diplomat, public speaker, educator and an entrepreneur. She is the author of the Amazon best-seller Africa 101: The Wake-Up Call. Prior to this, in her role as Permanent Representative to the African Union Mission in Washington DC (2016-2019), Her Excellency worked tirelessly towards fulfilling her mandate which was to undertake, develop and maintain relationships between the African Union and the Executive and Legislative branches of the US Government, the African Diplomatic Corps, the Africans in the Diaspora and the Bretton Woods Institutions. Before her appointment as AU Ambassador, her contributions to the cause of Africa had earned her many prestigious honors and awards. She has two awards which she cherishes the most. The first one was the Achievement Award which she received in 1996 from the incumbent President at the time, H. E. the late President Nelson Mandela of the Republic of South Africa. On the stage as she received the Award were both President Mandela and President Mugabe of the Republic of Zimbabwe. The second one was the African Woman of Excellence Award which she received in July 2015 during the AU Summit in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Jacqueline Dungey is Principal of New Paradigm Loving Academy in Detroit, Michigan. It is a K-8 charter school dedicated to providing a high-quality education to all of our students. They offer a new paradigm for learning that challenges students to think higher and make global connections through their academic disciplines as they are preparing for college. The highly qualified educators and administrators use research-based, proven practices in the curriculum that go beyond the classroom. Loving Academy is committed to developing all of our students into high achievers as they are preparing for college. She has been a passionate, dedicated educator for over 20 years. Spanning Colorado, Wisconsin, and now Michigan, Jacqueline has touched the lives of 1000’s of students and families. She specializes in building relationships with students, staff, and families alike. Jacqueline specializes in building a disciplined and welcoming school climate. She has a personal mission to reduce barriers for families like technology deficits, closing the achievement gap in education, and shaping children’s mindsets to become life-long learners. Jacqueline received her Bachelor’s Degree in Education from the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs and a Master’s Degree in Educational Leadership from Concordia University (WI). Jacqueline and her husband, Jody, are the proud parents of six wonderful children William (24), Camryn (21), Myles (19), Willow (18), Caleb (13) and Meadow (7). When not working she enjoys exploring culture in the city and traveling with her children.

Stacey Abrams is the New York Times bestselling author of Our Time is Now and Lead from the Outside, a serial entrepreneur, nonprofit CEO, and political leader. After serving as Minority Leader in the Georgia House of Representatives, Abrams became the 2018 Democratic nominee for governor of Georgia, where she won more votes than any other Democrat in the state’s history. Over the course of her career, she has founded multiple organizations devoted to voting rights, training and hiring young people of color, and tackling social issues. Dedicated to civic engagement, her most recent endeavors include: launching Fair Fight to ensure every American has a voice in our election system, Fair Count to ensure accuracy in the 2020 Census and greater participation in civic engagement, and the Southern Economic Advancement Project, a public policy initiative to broaden economic power and build equity in the South.

She serves on the Board of Advisors for Climate Power 2020, the Center for American Progress, and the Women’s National Basketball Players Association, and is a lifetime member of the Council on Foreign Relations. Abrams received degrees from Spelman College, the LBJ School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, and Yale Law School.

On May 7, 2018, LaToya Cantrell made history as New Orleans’ first woman mayor in its 300-year history. Her passion for community and civic engagement runs deep. Growing up in Los Angeles, she accompanied her grandmother to neighborhood meetings; by age 13, she became a secretary for her local chamber of commerce. As President of the Broadmoor Improvement Association, Cantrell led the flooded neighborhood’s redevelopment following Hurricane Katrina and the levee failures. Due in part to Cantrell’s leadership, Broadmoor is now considered an international model for disaster recovery. Cantrell was elected to the City Council representing District B in 2012 and focused heavily on health, housing and criminal justice. In November 2017 she successfully won out over a field of 17 other candidates to become Mayor, assuming office on May 7, 2018 – just in time to celebrate the city’s tri-centennial. She established a new Office of Youth and Families, with the goal of creating a strategic plan to address families in crisis in the city. Cantrell also founded a Gun Violence Reduction Council tasked with finding solutions to violent crime. Starting with a push to rededicate hotel taxes collected within the city for city use, Cantrell has focused on her #fairshare initiative to improve city infrastructure, public transportation, public parks, and green spaces. As part of that initiative, in October 2018 the City of New Orleans filed a lawsuit against four opioid manufactures and distributors. As Mayor, LaToya Cantrell has focused on three top priorities: public safety, infrastructure, and housing.

ALENE
CHEVRON'S FIRST AFRICAN AMERICAN SCIENTIST

"A very poignant, unflinching and stark story! Alene Harris's real life journey is not a typical migration from the 'Jim Crow South' story, but a tale that will resonate with all, and in particular, people of color and women who continually seek their purpose in a White and male dominated workforce."
Nate Thomas, Emmy Winner
Professor CSU, Northridge

"Alene's strong leadership ability and follow through on critical issues pertaining to product formulations and blends was superior. She was laser focused on every project and groomed her counterparts to incorporate the same high level skill set in their work. During her tenure, Alene's solid contributions played a crucial role in Chevron Refinery's success."

CAN'T BREATHE FOR 8 MINUTES AND 46 SECONDS

Ex Police Officer Derek Chauvin, took the breathe out of George Floyd as he died face down on a dirty city street while handcuffed and respectfully asking for mercy. “I can’t breathe, officer.”
In Memoriam

We Honor the memory of our dear friend and Philadelphia “Flagship” Chapter Chaplain Dr. Catherine I. Godboldte who peacefully transitioned to her heavenly reward on June 7, 2020 after a brief illness.

Here are a few of her accomplishments:

- Earned a bachelor's degree in mathematics from St. Joseph's University; master's in religion from Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary (Palmer Theological Seminary); and doctorate in religion and African-American studies from Temple University:

- Ordained in 1985, she served as the director of the School of Christian Ministry and continuing education at Palmer; as past recording secretary and controller of the Progressive National Baptist Convention; and was the first woman to hold office in a National Black Baptist Convention:

- A financial planner, consultant and author of books on the African American church, Dr. Godboldte was an inspiring and valued voice for women in the church and had the distinction of hosting many notables in our history, including Civil Rights Icon Rosa Parks. She will be missed.

Dr. Theresa Buckson congratulates The National Congress of Black Women, Inc. on their 36th Annual Awards Ceremony.
The National Congress of Black Women’s (NCBW) Culture of People with Disabilities Committee was established to serve the brilliant, yet often overlooked population of individuals with a disability. The NCBW Culture of People with Disabilities Committee was the vision of NCBW’s National President and CEO, Dr. E. Faye Williams, Esq. and Gerly Sapphire Harris, MEd, the first National Committee Chair. Dr. Williams and Mrs. Harris have dedicated their lives to the advancement of all women, both the able bodied and disabled alike. Laws such as the Americans with Disabilities Act and advancements in technology have greatly enhanced the standard of living for individuals with disabilities. There is, however, still a great deal of work to be done.

The NCBW Culture of People with Disabilities Committee is dedicated to advancing this unique culture from a global perspective, and recognizing the achievements of women within the disability community. The NCBW Culture of People with Disabilities Committee works toward:

- Heightening society’s awareness of the abundance of talent that has gone virtually untapped for far too long;
- Increase the visibility and participation of the disability community in the educational, political, economic, and social arenas; and
- Create a platform through which the disability culture’s voice can be fully and freely expressed, so that a greater level of societal consciousness and inclusion will ensue.

Individuals with developmental, emotional, intellectual, and physical disabilities, as well as those responsible for their care, are the target audience. Our Committee will continue to empower and edify individuals with disability while simultaneously educating the able-bodied population.

Since 2013 up until the present day, the Committee’s activities include a number of outreach efforts and training events designed to educate, and enhance community awareness of the Culture of People with Disabilities. One of the Committees’ primary goals is to collaborate with like-minded individuals and organizations to help increase disability awareness.
